

What is claimed:

1. A device for picking up refuse comprising;

190 an elongated handle;

a disposable box for collecting refuse attached to one end of said elongated handle; and at least one flap within said disposable box for retaining the refuse within a segregated area of said box thereby permitting a user to pick up additional refuse.

195

2. The device for picking up refuse of Claim 1 wherein said elongated handle comprises outer hollow member and inner shaft member contained within said outer member.

200

3. The device for picking up refuse of Claim 2 wherein said disposable box is opened for reception of refuse by downward pressure on said inner shaft member.

4. The device for picking up refuse of Claim 3 which further comprises a switch attached to said inner shaft member for transmitting downward pressure to said inner shaft member.

205

5. A device for picking up refuse comprising:

a handle, said handle comprising an inner shaft member and an outer tubular member,

210

a refuse receptacle attached one end of said elongated handle, and at least one flap within said receptacle for retaining the refuse within a segregated area of said receptacle thereby permitting a user to pick up additional refuse.